

Glynwood Center help to prepare a new generation of farmers

Greetings!

Today's Episode features Kathleen Finlay, President of the Glynwood Center for Regional Food and Farming. We will explore her journey toward her important current work to prepare a new generation of farmers to compete in a policy environment and marketplace that makes it exceedingly difficult to survive. This program regarding Kathleen and the Glynwood Center is the first in a series dedicated to nonprofit farm, demonstration and training centers and their leaders that embody the values and goals of the good food movement. Please have a listen and share the episode with friends and allies.

Upcoming Episodes

March 10th: A Special Flipping the Table Event

We are issuing the first episode of a new podcast called Beyond Your Table: From the Real Dirt to Common Ground. This inaugural show features organic farming pioneer, Judith Redmond, co-owner of the famous Full Belly Farm (450 acres) and Don Camron, perhaps California's most innovative large-scale farmer, who leads Terranova Ranch Inc (9500 acres). This new podcast is hosted by Rodger Wasson of Farm to Table Talk and me. We launched via a live event at the World Ag Expo in Tulare, California, on February 13th. With a great audience of beginning farmers in our conversation, we discovered common ground between two very different farms.

March 19th

Dave Henson, Executive Director of the Occidental Arts and Ecology Center. A conversation about his life of activism and how systems are changed. From the Diablo Canyon nuclear plant protests in the 1980s, the Battle in Seattle against the WTO in 1999, to facilitating transnational anti-plastic campaigns, Dave has been on the front lines as a global strategist helping to bring ecological sanity, social and economic justice to our world. This is the second in our series about nonprofit farm, demonstration and training centers that are helping to heal the planet.

April 2nd

Allen Katz, co-founder and co-owner of NY Distilling Company, based in Brooklyn. Allen is a pioneer of the craft cocktail and distilling industries that are exploding across the nation. With an emphasis on sourcing distillates from identified places and providing high quality spirits to those who love classic cocktails, the company is setting the bar and transforming the field. Allen is a great story teller about his fascinating world.

Share this Newsletter with Your Network

We want to grow our audience. If you like our show, please subscribe and offer a rating and write a review on the platform from which you get your podcasts. You will help us reach more people with our honest conversations about food, farming and the future.

Thank you for listening!

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Michael Reid Dimock".

Michael Reid Dimock
Host of Flipping the Table
Sponsored by Roots of Change and the Public Health Institute

mail@rootsofchange.org | www.rootsofchange.org