

"Flipping the Table" April 2, 2020 Volume 2, Issue 4

A Spirited Counterpoint to the Current Reality

Greetings!

Today's Episode features Allen Katz, cofounder of the New York Distilling Company in Brooklyn. I know that the unfolding tragedy in New York is on many minds. This offers a more uplifting, let's say spirited counterpoint to the current reality, which with a bit of time will end.

As you will see Allen is an incredible teller of entertaining stories and a creative entrepreneur and activist in support of good, clean and fair food and beverage. I have been in touch with Allen during the pandemic and I am happy to report that his distillery, in a wartime move, temporarily switched from making the highest quality cocktail spirits to providing hand sanitizer to first responders and hospitals in New York. At this time, Allen and his family are healthy. This is a fun episode with colorful bits about his products and cocktails and his deep commitment to the farmers and restaurants of New York State.

Upcoming Episodes

April 9th

A Special Brief Commentary. It will feature some updates from farmers and food makers and lessons I've learned so far from this pandemic.

April 16th

Thomas McQuillan, Vice President of Baldor Foods, one of the most innovative distributors on the East Coast. You'll hear what they are doing now and prior to the pandemic and I think you'll agree that it's inspiring.

April 30th

Jim Araby, United Food & Commercial Workers Union. What is up with food chain workers in this time.

If you like this show, there are three things you can do to help us keep it going. Please

- Subscribe, it is the best thing you can do to move us up with algorithms and on platform lists.
- Offer a rating and write a review, the second most impactful thing you can do.
- Share an episode or two on your social media and recommend it to folks, always a great way to grow our audience. We trust friends more than anyone else.

Thanks for listening!
